

Policy on Gift Designation and Reassignment

Any donation given in response to an appeal by Hope Corps will be used for the specified project. Hope Corps will put the funds to work on the stated project in a timely manner. If the specified project is fully funded, delayed or canceled, Hope Corps will reassign the excess funds to a need that most closely identifies with the project for which the funds were initially given.

Hope Corps will review funds donated for a designated purpose, to determine if the project can be achieved. If the funds are accepted, the gift will be used for the designated purpose.

Hope Corps, when appealing for funds for projects, will in advance of receiving gifts, seek to acknowledge if the project can be completed by supplying accompanying materials that state the organization viewpoint. The final decision on the assignment of funds from an appeal for a project resides with Hope Corps. Hope Corps will always seek to find other projects which are compatible with the givers interests and desires.
